

In a world where many weeks can pass between every tide, where dozens of mekers of water the coast and bring every living sea creature with it...

What can I find here?
A shell? A pretty stone?

I... I think it was a seagull this time...

I know that you don't believe her, but until now she was never mistaken.

And personally, I want to believe her.

Unlike you, I was there the day the water took her away.

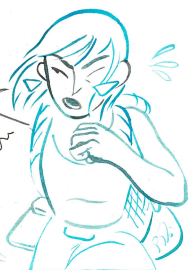

Why are you grumpy again?

He lost the apnea contest against Muli.

I told you that we should have listened to Muli! Why don't you ever listen to me?

Shut the f--- up and run!

We won't make it, we have to find and climb high rocks! Somebody will eventually send us a boat or something. There is already too much water to run!

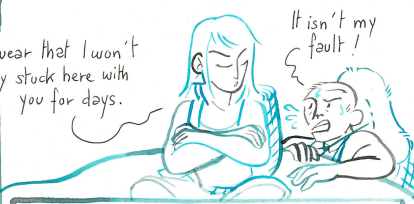

This one!

And now what?

I swear that I won't stay stuck here with you for days.

It isn't my fault!

Why are you so mean?

You're the one who acted on your own!

Excuse me?

Euuurk!!!

Pof

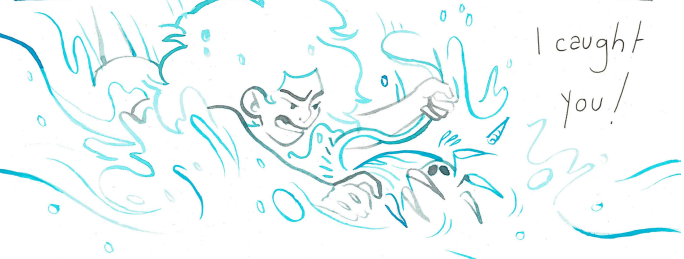

I touched it!

???

Oh no, not this seashell, give it to me, I need it!

Come back ugly, running in the water won't save you!

I caught you!

